

EMI Training System

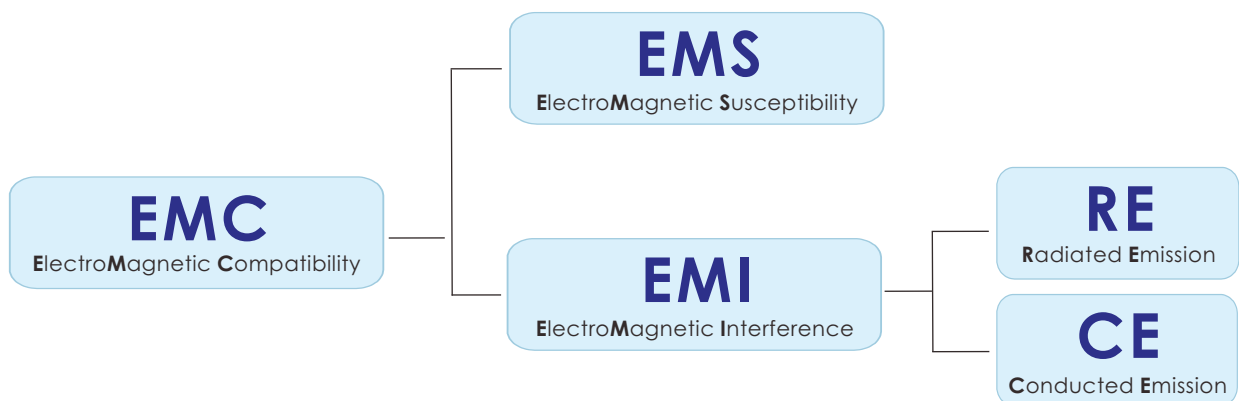

EMC-100

EMC-100 helps users learn the concepts of electromagnetic interference and develop effective suppression countermeasure for various layout designs.

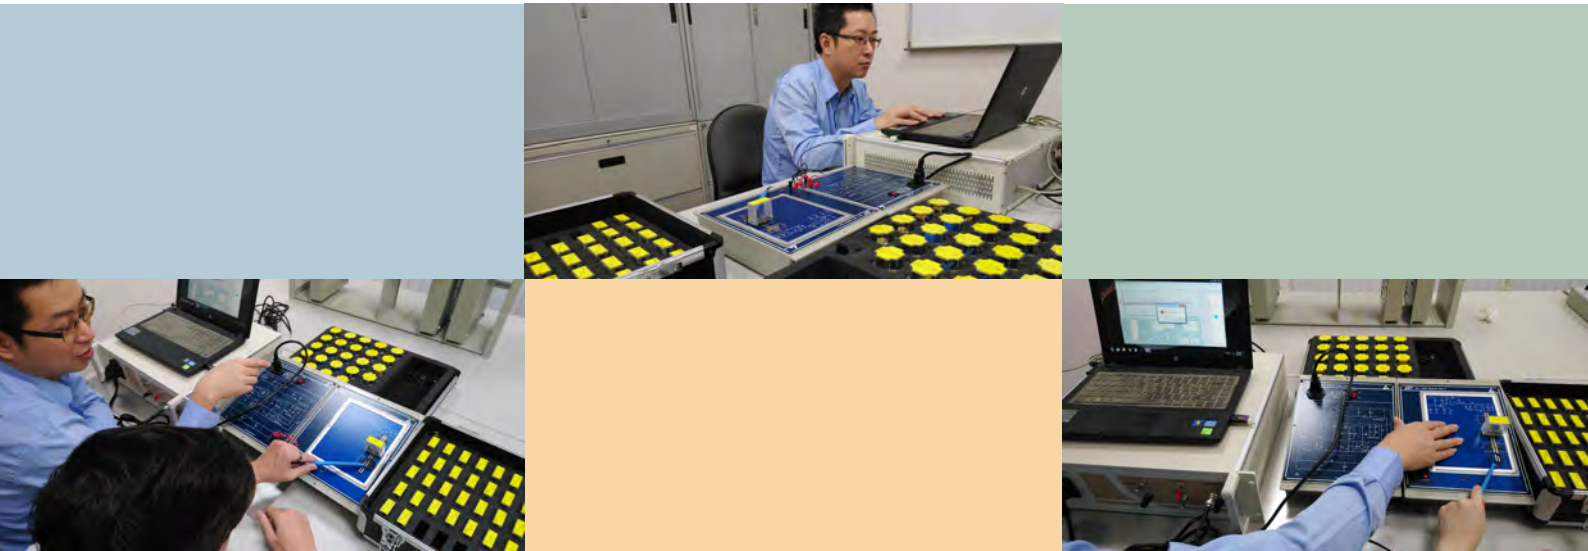

The CE mark for the European market is an essential part for exports to Europe. It is to certify conformity of products to the required standards which exporters to Europe have to take care.

• What is EMC ?

The EMC directive applies to almost all electronic products. It lays out the standards for radiated and conducted emission performance an electronic device should comply with.

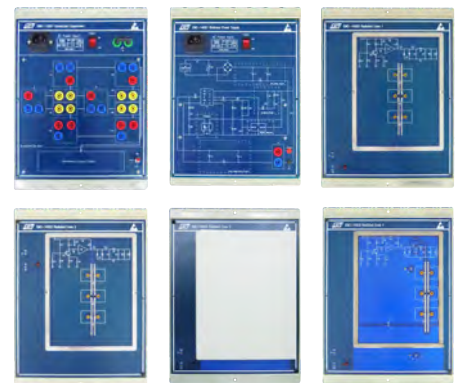

EMI Training System

- It is an ideal platform for learning the basic concepts of electromagnetic interference and suppression countermeasure.
- There are more than 50 pieces of suppression components provided in the system.

Suppression Filter Components

Experiment Modules

